CLASHES OF LAWYERS Georgia News DELAY PADGETT TRIAL

VALDOSTA, Ga. Aug. 7.—(P)— The jury was excluded during a large part of today's proceedings in the trial of Homer Padgett, charged with conspiracy in the slaying last August of W. H. Browning and his wife, while coursel avoid technical points while counsel argued technical points. The first clash was precipitated when the state sought to introduce evidence that time records of the Ma-natee (Fla.) crate company for last August had been altered, Padgett contends he was en route to Manatee at the time of the killing and arrived there soon afterward.

The records were introduced by the state, and the defense contended the prosecution could not attack its own documentary evidence without giving notice of such intention. Most of the forenoon was taken up by argument before Judge W. E. Thomas ruled that the evidence might be introduced and I. F. Teargert Washington heavily with J. F. Trazzart, Washington handwrit-

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

The holiday season has set in and year. If there is any man who Churchill was the first to leave this knows better when he is well-off than Calvin Coolidge his name escapes us.

There is scant likelihood that the republican party will need to draft him, for when it would reach that stage of peril not even Coolidge could save it from the ditch. The republican case must be committed for defense and salvation to Hoover, with the thin hope that he can pull it through the popular storm about to assail it.

For the rest the British aristocracy has a special predilection for the Riviera. Egypt used to be the fashionable winter holiday resort, but there is a tendency now to shift to Jerusalem, Palestine being under British mandate and Egypt having achieved its independence of late years. Mussolini knows no holidays, nor any surcease from hard work, since the day of the fascist march on Rome. He has even limited the number of popular holidays in Italy, because, he says, Italy cannot afford to be idle, not for a day, nor an hour. He sets the example by denying himself any lengthy vacation. His limit is a motor trip north to Milan to see his family.

Not a Recently Grown Disgust.

The first and only time that I listened to that prognathous cockatoo was 22 years ago in London. He was billed to speak at a noon service in City Temple, the church whose pulpit was formerly made famous by Dr. Joseph Parker and was then, in 1909 as liberal theolog.

The Mafia, it was found, at the trial, was not exactly an association which could be rounded up and dispersed by the police. It was more an attitude of mind, a perverted code of honor that had grown up on the island. Sicilians had also come to regard it as something connected with their own independent spirit, which settled its own feuds in its own way without the intervention of the law. The trial threw some curious sidelights on the Mafia. Among the prisoners were apparently respectable people. And most of them expressed amazement at the bad opinion the judge seemed to have formed.

ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise: You are a friendly little democrat by nature, and couldn't be a snob

if you tried; but you have one fault that will cost you much in years to come unless you correct it quickly. You are too well content with old friends to exert yourself in search of new ones.
It doesn't seem to matter now, but old friends die as the years pass and every passing year lessens your ability to make new ones to replace them.

About all of the happiness you get in this world will come from friends. Have you ever noticed how quickly a strange darkey makes friends when he comes to town? He greets every member of his race as he would an old acquaintance, and within an hour has established himself in intimate fellowship.

This knack of making friends keeps him con-tented wherever he finds others of his kind while the proud Caucasian is lonely in the midst of crowds and friend-The poor and the humble, wherever you find them, are friend-makers Like unspoiled children, they offer their friendship frankly, knowing in

Perhaps that is proof of evolution. The ordinary man likes to be-lieve that he isn't like other people. He is a little ashamed of his race. And the moment he can afford it, he begins to snub the others and pretend that he is made of different clay. We are friendly while we need the Anyway, most of us are snobs. We are friendly while we need the public's good will and very stand-offish and unapproachable when we have an income that makes us independent of public opinion.

Maybe this scornful withdrawal from the herd after winning a little success is the secret of racial progress, but people pay for it.

We are herd animals by nature, and there is no happiness for us ex

Thousands who think they get happiness from their religion really get it from the intimate fellowship of religious comrades.

Crackers Beat Lookouts in Opener, 4-3; Lose Second, 7-1; America Sweeps First Day's Matches in Wightman Cup Play

And don't insist that Horatio Alger didn't know what he was writing about. And don't complain that success depends on riches.

If so, how in the world did Johnny Mack Brown, from Dothan, Alabama, and Walter Hiers, from Cordele, Georgia, crash into stardom at Hollywood?

Walter Hiers was a barefooted kid, lugging around the Cordele Dispatch, peddling it on his route. Johnny Mack Brown was a country boy who went to school at Alabama, played football and got a chance in the movies. He worked for years in small parts until he got his break. The two movie stars were guests at a luncheon at Col.

L. O. Moseley's hostelry Friday noon. Carter Barron was host. Hiers had his audience of newspapermen rocking with stories he'd heard.

And Johnny Mack Brown, seriously attentive, made as gallant a little speech as you've ever heard-saying that his mother and his friends in the south had been the motivating force in his work-that whatever he might have achieved was due to There were some guests present outside the newspaper field-Red Barnes, Cracker outfielder, who played football with Brown; Red Barron, who played football against him at Tech, and Bert Niehoff, who played baseball on the coast and got to know Hiers. Brown is still interested in football. He thinks that Wallace Wade is the greatest coach of them all. He should. Any boy who plays football for a coach and doesn't think that coach is THE coach isn't much boy.

Brown takes his art seriously. Which is but natural. And he has moved his mother and home to Atlanta.

ALAS, POOR SOUTHERN DRAWL.

And what the talkies have done to that southern drawl which John Mack Brown took to Hollywood with him.

They have amputated it, obliterated it, done away with it, taught his vocal cords how to forget.

And today John Mack Brown speaks English. He does not slur his words. They come trippingly from his tongue with each syllable enunciated clearly and distinctly.

There is melody in his voice, the melody that anyone from Alabama or Mississippi or Georgia has. But the old slurring drawl, that the young ladies north of the Smith and Wesson line profess to find so intriguing, is

The talkies are likely to have us all talking English some day.

AND WAS SHE FUSSED?

After the luncheon, when John Mack Brown came to the hotel lobby, he encountered an old friend.

And with him was his, the friend's, sister. She is a well-known young lady in Atlanta. She is noted for her poise and calm. Nothing flusters or disturbs her.

She is, and was, a great John Mack Brown fan. She thinks he is a great actor. She had often wished to meet him. And then suddenly, with no warning, she got her chance. Her brother introduced her.

And looking at the boy from Dothan, Alabama, in the hear of Dixie, she stammered, clasped her hands, and said: "M-M-M-Mr. Brown, I'm so glad to meet you. HOW DO YOU LIKE THE SOUTH?"

And was her face red? One doesn't get to meet one's favorite movie star often-and very seldom indeed with no warning at all.

COUSIN JOE ENGEL'S IN AGAIN.

Cousin Joe Engel arrived Friday afternoon from Chattanooga with his baseball club.

Cousin Joe Engel has destroyed sixteen ice cream cones, four straw kellys or skimmers, and fifteen sandwiches during the course of the season.

Last week Cousin Joe Engel had just bought an ice cream cone. He emerged into the stands just as one of his men struck out with the bases full. Cousin Joe leaped up and down on his ice cream screaming helplessly.

He has tossed away four straw hats, torn off eight neckties and thrown fifteen sandwiches at the nearest object.

In the press box Cousin Joe Engel is the source of much pain, persisting in screaming cheers or imprecations at his club Barnes, of the heart of the hea and in the ears of the baseball reporters. It is a great tribute to Cousin Joe's personality that they are always glad to see him.

CHAMPIONS-YES, SIR.

The Barons won their sixth straight ball game Friday. If there was ever any doubt about them being champions for the 1931 season it has now been dispelled.

They are probably the best balanced ball club the league has had in modern years. There have been better hitting clubs. But none as well balanced.

And not until next year will old Colonel McGill attempt to whip the populace into a frenzy by saying that the Barons are Kingdon, as not so much and that the Crackers should murder them. The Barfoot, P Barons just won't slump. And any hint that they might, seems to nake them very angry indeed. The Crackers just won't take a pep talk seriously. They look worse against the Barons than any other club.

It was old Doctor Dave Danforth that the Crackers beat in the first game. He was out there bobbing his head and monkeying around with that ball. But he couldn't do quite enough with it, legitimately or otherwise. Paul Gregory worked a bit more than seven innings for the Crackers and pitched good ball. He got into trouble in the eighth and Joe Kiefer was rushed in to save the game. He did. Gregory looked good, however. He was really bearing down too hard to last.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 7.—

(UP)—Three Californians, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, Miss Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper, all but guaranteed the return of that valuable piece of tennis property known as the Wightman cup to these shores, when they made a clean sweep over three British stars here today.

Mrs. Moody, still the invincible one, launched the drive for the cup won by England last year when she trounced little Miss Phyllis Mudford, 6-1, 6-4, in the opening match of the day. Miss Jacobs then took the court and triumphed over Miss Betty Nuthall, England's No. 1 performer, 8-6, 6-4. Mrs. Harper made it a perfect day, in so far as the United States was concerned, by taking the measure of Miss Dorothy Round, 6-3, 4-6, 9-7.

HARD TASK.

HARD TASK.

America's clean sweep today makes it necessary for the English girls to take tomorrow's two singles and two doubles matches if they are to win the trophy. This would seem an impossible task, for Mrs. Moody, the greatest player in the world, seems a certain choice to defeat Miss Nuthall, fine player though the Englishwoman is HARD TASK.

achieved like all her others of the last six years; that is, with ridiculous case. Miss Mudford, making her first appearance in this country, did her best, but it was not enough to extend Mrs. Moody the slightest.

Miss Mudfogd's attack was based solely on a tremendous forehand, and when this shot failed to drop them in the far corners she was at the mercy of the American player.

Miss Jacobs required one hour and 15 minutes to defeat Miss Nuthall, and Mrs. Harper was forced to play just 15 minutes short of two hours before vanquishing Miss Round.

These two matches were as sensational as any played in the nine years the Wightman cup has been in circulation. In fact, Forest Hills veterans will tell you that the Jacobs-Nuthall match, particularly the first set, was as great a set as ever was played on the club's historic turf.

The match proved that Miss Jacobs is as game a fighter as ever slapped one down the sidelines or chopped one over the net. Miss Nuthall, playing the finest tennis of her career, simply swept Miss Jacobs of her feet to take the first four games. The English girl dropped the fifth game, but came back to take the sixth and lead 5 to 1. You couldn't have sold your chance on Miss Jacobs at this point for three cents.

With a smashing defeat staring her in the face, the California girl broke loose with a mighty rally that brought her the next four games in a row, two of which were achieved at the expense of Miss Nuthall's service.

A lot of folks will tell you that Saturday morning is the busi-est morning of the week, and to prove it they will show you all the people hurryin' about on the streets. tryin' to get to the bank before it closes and all that.

Shucks, they ain't worryin' about the banks closin' early, they're out hustlin' around tryin' to get tlekets for the ball game, buyin' a new golf stick or fryin' to get some live bait before they are all sold. Folks may go through the motions of workin' on Saturday mornin' but they ain't doin' a thing but thinkin' about how many fish they're goin' to catch that afternoon, how many home runs Babe Ruth is goln' to get and how they're goin' to come out in the battle with Old Man Par.

Par.

Then when Saturday night comes, the only folks that really have anything to show for all the excitement of the morning are the fishermen. The baseball fans can't claim Babe hit a home run if he didn't, the golf fans have too many witnesses to get away with claimin't they gave Old Man Par a lickin' if they didn't, so the fishermen are sittin' on top of the world. They've either got the fish to prove what they done, or the imagination to make a good story out of why they didn't come back with a big string. Saturday, today, may be a bad day for employers, but it sure is a grand and glorious day for us fishermen, baseball fans and golf nuts.

Tales of a Wayside Tee.

The mental kinks in golf, conscious and subconscious, are quite different from those that beset or belong to almost every other sport.

This is easy enough to understand. In most other competitions the action is so fast that the mental side has to be largely instinctive. The football end isn't sure just what his opponents will do-ham-Action and plenty of it awaits At-lanta golfers today and Sunday in the completion of numerous matches in va-rious club and municipal tournaments. They may are through the line, try an end sweep or throw a pass. They may delayed pass or a lateral. Most of the thinking done in sport is in the back swing with the left hand and left arm, minus any rush, and of not being too quick on the down swing. He can also think more in terms of using his hands to swing the club head, without concentrating too much on what his body is doing. He can also think more in terms of ease and comfort and natural effort, and not so much in terms of hitting or.

In golf it is entirely different. The ball sits there and it isn't going to move until it is hit. The player has all the time he needs in which to call in the mental side. If he is an average golfer he may either think of nothing at all, or about more things than he can digest. If he thinks of nothing at all, there is the subconscious thought of hitting, which may cause him to tighten up, may cause him to tighten up, hurry his swing, lurch his body and lift his head. If he tries to think of too many things his mental process becomes a blur and about the same thing happens. The mental process is entirely different as regards the crack and the average player. The first at least knows that he has a good swing. He knows that he has a good swing. knows how to swing the right way.

The second has no swing in which he has any confidence. He has too many faults to watch, and this also ties him into knots and breaks up his

Why should a fine golfer with sound swing ever have to the anything but hitting the ball? There is a lot of disagreement here. Bobby Jones says that in a hard competition he usually thinks of three things. One is to be sure that he swings back smoothly. The second is that he cocks his left wrist at the top of the swing. The third may be one of several things, depending on the situation or some fault he wants to

Billy Burke, the new open champion, says he doesn't think of anything except hitting the ball. He figures that long hours of play and long weeks of competition have told him what he must do instinctively in playing a drive, a long iron or a mashie. George Duncan says he gets a mental picture of the shot to be made just before taking his stance, and just before taking his stance, and then lets instinct or nuscle memory or the subconscious mind do the rest. Here you have Burke and Jones.

the last two United States open champions, wide apart on the mental side, as applied to concentration.

Hagen says he knows what his hands are doing in relation to the action of the club head and that he can correct an error on the down swing by shifting the path or action of his hands.

The states problem is to tight off tension and to think of the right thing, whatever it is, at the right time. In many cases, under fire, the star thinks of what may happen if the ball doesn't travel where the wants it to go, rather than hold his con-

Chisox Make Deal The Two Mental Processes.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Ang. 7.—(AP)—A deal involving the Chicago White Sox. Louisville Colonels and Toledo Mudhens was completed tonight.

Mel Simons, outfielder, had been released to the Toledo American association club by Chicago. The White Sox recalled Bob Weiland, left-handed pitcher, from the Colonels, and Toledo sent Carl Mays, veteran submarine performer, to the Kentucky team on an optional agreement.

The average golfer has a tangled mental problem to face at all times. Here is one example. The natural vay for him to take the club back is to lift it with the right hand. The correct way to take the club back is to put the left hand and left arm in control. If he leaves his back swing instinct, he will let the right hand lift the club head outside the line of flight, where at the top of the swing he is in no position to hit the ball. He isn't going to take the club back in close with the left hand instinc-

Here is another. Bobby might make 95 per cent of his swings smoothly and evenly with-out thinking about them. The out thinking about them. The average golfer will almost always burry his back swing and lock his wrists unless he concentrates on a smooth, even start. Bobby Jones probably thinks of this fea-ture now deliberately, because it

Italo-German Co-opera tion Assured in Solution of Nations' Troubles.

BY JOHN EVANS.

ROME, Aug. 7.—(P)—At an official dinner in honor of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius, of Germany, Premier Mussolini tonight pleaded for international cooperation in the "great common work whose aim is to heal the moral and material wound which the war left behind and from which all peoples still suffer."

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—As the time approaches for the meeting date in December of the new congress, it is becoming more and more apparent that of all the vacancies that have occurred in the lower house from death, the one on which organization control of that body may hinge lies in the first Obio district, caused by the untimely demise in the spring of Speaker Nicholas Longworth.

Because of the close line of division in the strength of the two parties, observers were quick to point behind and from which all peoples still suffer."

In reply, Herr Bruening assured the premier that his address filled him with "grateful joy" and expressed the hope that "through common effort the great difficulties of the present day may be overcome."

Mussolini opened his address by paying tribute to German culture, art and science and by expressing deep sympathy with Germany in her pressumathy with Germany i

Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Bruening laid the groundwork today for a new friendship between Italy and Germany, and started talking on practical measures for the common nod of the world.

The Italian premier and chief of ascists and the German chancellor, those political life is threatened by litlerite fascists at home, dealt frankwith European sore spots in their Skipping over a few contests which seem certain to arise, out of a total house membership of 435 the republicans elected 218 and the democrats 216, with a lone farmer-laborite, Representative Kvale, of Minnesota, completing the list. Thus, the switch in a single seat from republican to democratic would place both parties on an even basis, leaving the deciding vote to the lone independent.

Actually since the November elections there have been about a dozen senate.

The ward reduction amendment would have the six wards radiate generally from the center of the city to the city limits, the particular limits to be fixed by the mayor and general council. Each ward would be allowed two councilmen, elected by ward votes, and two aldermen elected by the voters of the city at large. Present representatives would serve out their terms. Department heads would be given full responsibility to manage their departments free from committee control, subject to appeal to the committee in charge of the department.

The city learn amendment would be given full responsibility to manage their departments free from committee in charge of the department.

The city loan amendment would from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 for any one calendar year. The mayor's term amendment was introduced to clarify the act extending the term from two to four years so as to remove any doubt as to the beginning of Mayor James L. Key's term last January 1.

To Begin Compiling Estimate of Needs; Expects Improvement.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(P)—Assurance that provision will be made for next winter's unemployment relief needs, whatever their extent or character, was given today by President Heover.

The chief executive announced he was calling upon all interested agen-cies for facts on the situation as part of a survey designed to ascertain the probable "load of distress" and deter-mine methods and organization necessary to care for it. "The economic changes during the year will materially improve certain areas and others may be worse," he said.

Mr. Hoover contended the situation was successfully met last winter through the co-operation of local, state and federal authorities with relief and charitable organizations and indicated similar methods will be followed this year.

to co-operate with these agencies.

He said it would take another month to complete the surveys and studies he has undertaken. By that time, he added, it will be possible to determine "the character and method of national organization necessary" to co-ordinate and support other relief activities. The text of the president's statement follows:

"During the past three weeks I "During the past three wees a have engaged, together with members of the administration, in a study of the problems of unemployment and relief likely to confront us over the coming winter and the organization coming winter and the organization necessary to meet the situation. While improvement in the situation in many directions seems promising, the prob-lem, whatever it may be, will be met.

"With the organized co-operation of local and state and federal authorities, and the large number of relief and charitable organizations, the problem was successfully handled last winter.
"We shall adapt organization methods in such manner as may be necessary for the coming winter.

sary for the coming winter.

"The first of the facts to be determined is the probable volume of load of distress which will need to be provided for. The various bureaus of the government are engaged in an exhaustive study of last winter's experience of all organizations in the average number of persons in distress and their location. and their location.

"Further examination is being made of the probable load during next winter. The economic changes during the year will materially improve certain areas and others may be worse. These reports are not yet complete.

"The second requirement is to appraise the action now in progress, the agencies which are available for the winter, the methods which have proved successful, and the organiza-tion needed to co-operate with these agencies."

"I have been in communication with amination to determine the actual number to be employed through the steadily increasing volume of federal public works. We are canvassing state and municipal and industrial construction to ascertain what may be expected in that direction. "The completion of these conferbe expected in that direction.

"The completion of these conferences and inquiries will require another month. By that time all the facts should be clear both as to the load to be met, the progress and strength of organization in different regions and the character and method of national organization recovery.

Adequate Trump Support

A bequest from the days when four-card suits were not considered biddable is the theory, still advocated by some writers and still followed blindly by many players, that three small trumps are adequate support for partner's suit bid.

To accept this theory and act upon it either results in the failure to bid many makeable games or else results in disastrous losses when the trump strength is massed in one of the opposing hands.

ANSWER:

Dear children. I should like to say something to you that would comfort you, justify your father in your eyes and make it easier for the stepmother. You don't know it but you have answered your own question in the asking of it. The fact that you cannot understand why your father doesn't find the love of his children enough to satisfy him is the very categorical answer to your question. He got married because he was lunely and because he found a woman whom he loved who would understand. Because she does, by virtue of her years, and her position as his wife, understand him, you think she has the first place in his life. Not necessarily.

His second marriage doesn't reflect on your mother or on his love for her and it doesn't, or shouldn't, interfere with his love for her children and his. When the winds and the storms destroy a bird nest the birds begin immediately to build again and when death breaks up a home it is only natural for the man to set about to rebuild it, when a decent time of mourning shall have elapsed. It is nature's way and when nature speaks men obey her.

Have you ever sat in a dentist's chair and been terrified for fear the dentist was going to crash down on a nerve in the tooth? Some-times the cavities are so near the nerve ends that there is such danger. Here is a case in point. This problem lies near the quick of the hearts involved and it is hard to talk about it without crashing down on the nerve ends.

No man has any right to allow his second wife to come between him and his first wife's children. But there are times when those children take the second wife and push her into the place between their father and themselves. Then the father is perfectly helpless. Naturally, that is the position the second wife would prefer and she cannot be expected to displace herself. Maybe then, it is the children's fault. And if so, what is to be done about it?

It is not a hopeless situation but one fraught with pitfalls on every hand, and as a successful stepmother has said, emotional pitfalls, which are the deepest and the most perilous.

Fathers, newly married to second wives, don't neglect the little brood. Stepmothers, newly married to fathers of little children, don't allow those children to feel that you are usurping their places. Children, be unselfish with your step-parent and your own parent and don't cast the black shadows on their propriets and your own parent and con't cast the black shadows CAROLINE CHATFIELD. ## BY JOHN A. BOUMAN. BERLIN, Aug. 7 .- (AP)-Sunday's Pete B. Jarman Jr., secretary of day contradicted reports that Senator efforts of the Prussian government to John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, had defeat it.

John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, had disqualified himself by spending more than $10,000 in campaign expenditures during the 1930 election.

Secretary Jarman's letter follows:
"Dear Senator: I observe in the press of August 5 the claim of Frank A. Hampton, attorney for former Senator Heflin, that Senator Bankhead had disqualified himself by spending a total of $11,531, or $1,531 in g with the prevention of political law.

"In view of the fact that copies of statements of receipts and disbursements filed by Senator Bankhead in my office accompanied his letter to you, it occurs to me to inform you that the $11,531 to which Mr. Hampton refers is a total of the entire ex-the plebiscite.

The steel helmeters, in a written protest to the president, requested him to rescind what they termed intolerable interference by the Prussian government in forcing Prussian papers to print what in their opinion was "contrary to truth and justice."

among his friends with a pale and drawn face and a preoccupied air; his smile was forced. If he had dealt Sally a blow, she—or rather Sam Winstead—had dealt him a deadlier one in return. He was the victim of shame, despair, jealousy. Lowndes was called upon to pay a heavy price. Of this Sally knew nothing. She had steeled her heart to the inevitable. She told herself that she was saving Oakleigh for grandmamma, that she was, in a measure, redeeming poor grandpapa's tragic errors; but she was called upon to pay. Nor could she was called upon to pay, Nor could she was called upon to pay. Nor could she was called upon to pay to could she was she was called upon to pay. Nor could she was called upon to pay, Nor could she was she was called upon to pay. Nor could she was sliped on her finger, "I promone you man and wife." She couldn't that be shall marry another woman, when his love was hers. And that destiny called upon her to marry another wan filled her with despair. There were moments when she lay in her bed in the middle of the might, staring into the dark with burning eyes, when her approaching marriage tilled her with real terror. Only the thought of grandmamma asleep in her accustomed room, waiting with happy expectation for grandpapa's return tomorrow kept. Her courage to the sticking point. Why had she and Lowndes met, why had he been allowed to torture her? Why? Why why should she love Lowndes, even now? Why couldn't overcome her aversion to Henry Winstead, try as she would. Sam adored, his father, was proud of him, showed him deference and respect; the relations between this father and son were touchingly close. When she had to meet the man she was celdly polite. Henry, sensing it, was psinduly shy, which gave him the appearance of being casual and cold. He had been startled when Sam told him, composedly, of his engag

Then presents began to pour in It seemed as if everybody who knew them wished to show their relief and pleasure in this fortunate termination of the Rutherford affairs, and Sally was inundated with wedding presents.

From this general chorus of rejoicing, one voice was absent: Lowndes, Lowndes sustained a ghastly shock when he heard that Sally, whom he was assured loved him alone, was so suddenly engaged to Sam Winstead, He suffered a devouring jealousy, a helpless rage, a torturing desire. Never had he wanted the girl so much, never had he wanted the girl so much, never had she seemed so dear and desirable as now, when she was definitely out of his reach. It did not add to his comfort to know that it was gladly admitted that Sally was making a very good marriage. Sam Winstead, He minister had arrived, the cars was seed and grand man was wedding veil, and the string of parks wedding veil, and the string of parks wedding veil, and the string of one sight. Anne thought that she resembled a snow maiden, she was so pale and so lovely.

Once again the great parlors of Oakleigh were to be the scene of a day a subdued rusting, the hushed expectancy of something about to happen. Mr. Herbert Sinclair, who was to give the bride away, went about looking dazedly pleased. He was delighted. Rupert's girl, God bless her, couldn't have done better than this! Henceforth she was safe, Oakleigh was safe.

The minister had grandmam as wedding veil, and the string of parks wedding veil, and the string of the price of the ridge and so lovely.

Once again the great parlors of Oakleigh were to be the scene of a day on the colonel would be present to witness Sally's marriage. The house was delighted a snow maiden, she was so pale and so lovely.

Sterling eventually received support here. After sagging 1-4 cent to $4.84 15-16, cables rallied to $4.85 3-8, up 3-16 net. The French franc, however, was weak.

Wholesale and retail trade is holding steady in this period of seasonal dullness. Bradstreet's says "the encouraging optimism noted last week continues to be shown as regards fall activity, although it is recognized there will be no "startling return to prosperity." Dun's noted fewer downward revisions in wholesale merchan-dise markets and said some lines were showing firmer tendencies. A contrast to the action of rail bonds was the performance of numerous foreigns, especially those of German origin. Many in this group rallied sharply, thus giving further evidence of increasing confidence in the reich's ability to work its own way

Wheat snapped up 21-4 to 25-8

BY ALEXANDER HENDERSON. NEW YORK, Aug. 7.-(P)-The bond market fluctuated irregularly today. Although a rising tendency appeared on the late sales, the majority | closing prices represented net osses for the day. Such strength as Railroad obligations w

Rairona obligations were one of the most active groups and most of them continued weak. The average for 10 cading rail issues reached a new 1931 ow at 96.1, a decline of eight-tenths 108.1. The average one year ago

German 5 1-2s and 7s, the two most mortant issues of that nation, unped 2 1-2 points each on a large folume. Other German loans made nixed changes. Foreign bonds, as a shole, were irregular and fluctuations were principally a matter of group novements.

With the exception of treasury 3.3.8s of 1940-43 and the new 3.1.8s, which were active and firm, United States government issues continued quiet.

Industrial bonds were inclined to recede but trading in most of them was restricted.

SOME CASH BUYING.

The further decline of $44,000,000 in brokers' loans to a new low level served to confirm the statements by brokerage houses that they are carrying less stocks on margin than at any time in many years. The figures on brokers' loans indicate clearly the huge extent to which liquidation has progressed. This is further emphasized by the fact that brokers' loans on August 5 last amounted to $1,346, 000,000, whereas at the peak of the 1929 boom there were five brokerage houses alone which had aggregate loans of approximately $1,250,000,000.

loans of approximately $1,200,000,000.

Some light cash buying, however, is heing reported by brokerage houses. The demand seems to be largely for stocks which are selling at a small the stocks which are selling at a small stocks. stocks which are selling at a small number of dollars per share as indi-cated by the fact that one large firm today bought for one customer 100 shares of stock in 25 different issues, selling under $12 a share each. FOREIGN SELLING.

The continued heaviness of the rail-road stocks is believed to be due to persistent selling of rails for the ac-count of the British. There is some concern in the Street as to the pos-sibility of the British government of-fering its own government bonds in sibility of the British government of-fering its own government bonds in exchange for foreign securities and then selling the foreign securities. It is reported in the Street that such a measure may be adopted in an ef-fort to relieve the English financial narket stocks drifted irregularly in anmarket stocks drifted irregularly in another generally quiet session today.

Sales for the session increased to roughly 270,000 shares, which was 30,000 more than yesterday's, but this reflected a flurry of activity in one issue, Cities Service, in which the turnover was nearly 80,000 shares, against about 25,000 yesterday.

Cities Service touched a rew low at 85-8, then recovered to close at 91-4, off 1-4 of a point, net. There were no developments to account for the Oklahoma, but the bulk of Cities Service earnings have been coming from its public utility properties of late.

Utility shares generally moved narrowly. American & Foreign Power warrangs closed fractionally higher, and Electric Bond & Share was steady, finishing up 1.8. and Electric Bond & Snare was steady, finishing up 1-8.
Oil shares were in the main about steady. Humble lost a point, but Gulf, Indiana and Vacuum were bare-In the industrials Aluminum Com-pany rallied nearly 3 points, and Decre and Ford of Canada "A" were fractionally higher.

Producers are out of the market, holding their metal at S cents, but their subsidiaries are selling fabricated products on the basis of 7 3-4 cent copper.

FOOD PRICES — Bradstreet's weekly food index has turned lower after holding steady for the previous four weeks, the rather severe break in many commodity markets this week cancelling the gains made in the past several weeks. The index number for this week, $2.16, shows a drop of 1.4 per cent from the preceding week. As compared with the like week of last year the decline is 23 per cent. 3 Lehigh P 8 6a 2026 A 1044 1044 1044 9 Libby McN & L 5a 42 214 20 90 6 Long 1at Lt 6a 45 1044 1044 1014 1015 1 Louis P & L 5a 57 ... 1014 1014 1014

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 60

"Your people will not kill me," said Tarzan. "I come as a friend." But in his heart the ape-man knew that these primitive people would surely attempt his life. "Come, then," replied Ovan and they started the descent into the canyon. They had gone some distance when the boy gave a low whistle. A moment after it was answered and when they passed around a bend in the trail ahead, Tarzan saw the cave city of Clovi upon a ledge where were gathered fully a hundred men, women and children.

man and the boy came into view. On seeing Tarzan the warriors sprang up, seizing their spears and knives. The women and children ran toward the caves' entrances. "Do not fear," cried the boy, "it is Ovan and his friend Tarzan." "We kill!" growled some of the men. "Where is Avan, the chief?" demanded the youth. Then Tarzan saw a stalwart, burly savage push through the crowd. "What have you there, my son," the chief exclaimed. "If he is a friend, why comes he with weapons?"

THE MYSTERY OF LIFE

As Vividly Interpreted by CLARENCE DARROW A Universal Picture

CONTEST RULES Starting today and continuing through tomorrow, ten questions will be asked in this space, concerning CLASSIFIED ADS appearing in THE CONSTITUTION. Each question will be easy to answer because it will refer to a particular classified ad which appears in THE CONSTITUTION. Contestants simply have to find each ad upon which the ten questions are based. Cut out the questions and paste the classified ad which answers each question directly under the question. Then send our work to the Mystery of Life Editor, care of the CLASSI-FIED AD DEPT., The Atlanta Constitution. Two tickets to the CAPITOL theater to see THE MYSTERY OF LIFE wil be awarded daily to the 15 persons who send in the best arrangement of the correct answers, together with a 50-word essay on any one of the 10 ads appearing daily—on "Why This Ad Appeals to Me." Each day a new set of questions will be published. You will find this a novel and most interesting

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"When Carb returns we shall call a council and decide what to do," finally said the chief. "Meanwhile the stranger must remain a prisoner." Then spoke Tarzan for the first time: "I shall not remain a prisoner. Accept me as a friend—or not at all." "We are many, Avan, and he is only one," spoke up a warrior named Ulan. "Let him stay," pleaded the boy. "Ulan and I will see that he harms no one." The chief's son was a great favorite with the tribe and so it was decided that, because he wished it, Tarzan might remain unharmed.

OIL GUARD REDUCED IN OKLAHOMA AREA

Bloodless Battle Continues Between Murray and Purchasers.

OKLAHOMA CITY. Aug. 7 .- (A) Military watchdogs of Oklahoma's oil fields, becalmed under Governor W. H. Murray's martial shutdown edict, were thinned out today with an apparent impasse in the bloodless bat between governor and crude oil workmen with nothing to do since flush wells were closed as Murray's eply to the failure of oil companies o pay $1 a barrel for crude oil. The top price now is 50 cents.

The larger oil companies indicated elimination of personnel would begin Monday unless the military rule is lifted and independent refiners predicted suspension of operations by mid-August unless they can replenish dwindling supplies.

With virtually all flush producers except those pumping water inactive, and no visible, physical opposition to enforcement of the shutdown, 70 of the 243 national guardsmen on duty state oil districts were ordered thdrawn by Adjutant General Charles F. Barrett. There is a probability more will leave duty to attend national guard camp at Fort Sill. August 15.

Oil men have estimated the shut-lown may throw 7.500 oil workers in he state out of employment.

VIATION leaders are strongly in support of a measure introduced in the house of representatives Thursday to create an air branch of the national guard in Georgia. Such a unit not only would lend added prestige to this state's recognized position as southern aviation leader, would further strengthen At lanta's claim as the air hub of the Friday Air Mail. south, provided, of course, that this city were selected as the headquarters for the unit... At present, only two national guard air outfits exist in the fourth corps area—the 105th observation squadron, at Nashville, and the 106th squadron, at Birmingham. Expense to the state would ham. Expense to the state would consist of building a hangar and pro-viding facilities which would serve as a real safeguard to the government The government would supply the necessary airplanes and maintain them. Everything, of course, depends upon the war department's acquiescence to a request from Georgia that a unit be formed. Note: The plane to New York, achedicled to leave at 11:45 p. m.; the plane to Chicago, scheduled to depart at midnight, the late plane from New York, scheduled to arrive at 11:10 p. m. and the late plane from Miami, scheduled to arrive here about midnight, are not listed in the above table. New sites have been selected for the realignment of airway beareon lights on the Washington-New York section of the Atlanta-New York airway, and the work of installing the rotating lights will be undertaken soon, Colonel Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, announced Friday. The secrition of the airway, when the lights are established at the new sites, will follow a more direct route than the original course, Young explained, and in general will be more desirable from the standpoint of regular users of

T., but not sharing in the priz money, will receive $150 consolation

William L. "Young" Stribling, who had about decided to enter the big event in his Trayel Airmonoplane, has changed his mind and instead will make a pleasure trip to the Pacific coast with his wife. The couple plan to leave aboard an American Airways Fokker from Candler field next Wednesday morning and to spend several weeks in sight-seeing over the far west. They may wind up at Cleveland for the annual aviation classic.

At least one Atlanta pilot will be among those present when more than 50 contesting airmen line up at Santa Monica, Cal., on the morning of August 30, for the national sweepstakes handicap derby to the National Air Races at Cleveland. He will be George Shealy, well-known local flyer, who will be at the controls of Hank Prichard's Challenger Robin, with the plane's owner as a passenger. The plane now is being overhauled in the Curtiss-Wright shops here in preparation for the event. The sweepstakes carries approximately $25,000 in prize money and the man or woman pilot finishing the race with the best percentage, according to the handicap formula, will win the grand sweepstakes prize—a Cord sport cabriolet valued at approximately $2,500. ORDERED BACK TO U. S.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—(P)—Freidrich
Wilhelm Von Prittwitz und Gaffron, ambassador to the United States, has cut short his vacantion in Germany at the request of Chancellor Bruening and will return to Washington aboard the Bremen next Thursday.

The Market Trom his illness that his physicians today issued a statement saying, "Mr. Edison had an excellent night. His condition seems definitely improved and there seems to be no need for further bulletins."

The S4-year-old inventor confided to his son. Theodore, that he had "the will to work." and for the first time since his illness, discussed business matters.

later said that he "had not been making a good living this year." Jones died on the way to a hospital. There will be an inquest.
